

PROBLEMS STUDIED BY AREA SCHOOL STUDY COUNCIL

Improving Home - School Relations, and Instruc- tional Program

NINE BUCKS DISTRICTS

Gather with Delegates from Chester and Montgom- ery Counties

DOYLESTOWN, Nov. 24 — The Philadelphia Area School Study Council, Northeastern Division, met recently in the new Bucks County assembly building here to further its study of two problems outlined for extensive investigation during the current school year, namely, improving home and school relations and improving the instructional program. Representatives from nine school districts in Bucks county, together with delegates from Spring City, Chester county, and Upper Merion, Montgomery county, were present.

Mrs. Elsie Morgan, elementary supervisor of Bensalem township schools, presided. Mrs. Sara Buckley, Sell-Perk school, was named secretary in the absence of Dr. Genevieve Bowen. Dr. Ross Neagley and Miss Helen Foster of Temple University's School of Education acted as consultants for the group.

Dr. Neagley reported the activities of the other two study council groups in the Philadelphia area. The southwest group meeting at Dover, Delaware, has completed its study of citizenship, a high school level project. The southeast division, New Jersey, is continuing the study of science in grades one through twelve. A joint council project with two representatives from each of the three council groups, is scheduled to begin on the development of a handbook for parents of beginners. Miss Elizabeth Cupitt, elementary supervisor of Doylestown borough, and Miss Esaher Gehman, elementary supervisor of Quakertown, have been named delegates from the Northeastern division to this joint council activity.

Dr. Neagley discussed future topics for "SHARE," the official publication of the Philadelphia Council. This magazine serves as a clearing house for discovered, tried and perfected educational procedures submitted by participants in the area served by the Council. Topics announced for future issues include: January, Public Relations; March, Civil Defense; May, Democratic Administration.

Following the general meeting, the group divided for committee work. Mrs. Edward Fleming, Bristol borough, chaired the section on the Instructional Program. Mrs. Sara Buckley is co-chairman, and Miss Elizabeth Cupitt is secretary for this group. Work on the community resource file was continued. Ten representatives reported detailed information about places in the community which children

Restaurant at New Hope Bought by Philadelphian

NEW HOPE, Nov. 24 — The Tow-Path House, a restaurant well-known in this area, is being sold, it is announced.

The prospective purchaser, Walter G. Gellert, a retired Philadelphia manufacturer and engineer, plans to continue to operate it as a restaurant. The final contract is expected to be signed in about 10 days, according to Philadelphia realtor Robert L. Sterne, who is arranging the sale.

Mrs. Henrietta Cunningham, who opened the Tow-Path House as a tea shop in 1936 and built it into an institution that has an annual payroll of $40,000, will remain associated with the firm for an "indefinite" period, Sterne said.

Located on Mechanic St., with terraces and gardens overlooking Ingham Run Creek, the restaurant was one of the first tourist attractions in the art colony, with regular patrons coming from Trenton, Philadelphia and New York, even before the Bucks County Playhouse opened in 1939.

Notice To All Pastors

On and after Thursday, Nov. 29th, the deadline for receipt of church notices to be published on Friday and Saturday of each week will be advanced from 12 noon to 10 a. m.

The advanced deadline is made necessary in order to properly handle the church news.

Railroad Employees Told Not To Seek Information

Railroad employees are urged not to write to the Railroad Retirement Board about the increase in retirement and survivor benefits recently voted for them by Congress.

R. R. Young, the manager of the Board's local office, pointed out that as a result of amendments to the Railroad Retirement Act, approved on October 30, 400,000 persons on the Board's rolls are entitled to higher benefits. Many will receive some increase in December. In addition, 80,000 wives of retired railroad employees are now eligible for a benefit for the first time. Retired employees should not take any steps to apply for benefits for their wives until they receive specific instructions from the Board.

The Board's work has been increased tremendously by these changes. However, realizing how much the additional income means to the persons who will receive it, the Board is making the necessary adjustments as quickly as possible. Railroad employees who write for information will delay, rather than speed up, the handling of their case.

PROPAGANDA AGAINST U. S. WELL ORGANIZED

Dr. Walter H. Mohr So In- forms Voters' League and Women's Club

SPEAKS AT NEWTOWN

NEWTOWN, Nov. 24 — "Western Europe is subjected to strong anti-American propaganda, subtly and carefully organized, and very effective," said Dr. Walter H. Mohr, of George School, in his address before the joint meeting of Newtown League of Women Voters and the New Century Club, Tuesday evening, in the club house.

"This propaganda is untruthful, but if the statements are made repeatedly they are effective. . . . American propaganda is not strong enough to counteract the statement of the Russians."

Dr. Mohr says the courage of the people of western Europe is tremendous. "They have gone through two wars, the flower of their manhood has been killed off, and yet they show the courage to go on. Also the courage of the people of England is remarkable— austerity is the rule there and accepted uncomplainingly."

Dr. Mohr spent the past summer in Europe as a representative of the American Friends Service Committee.

JUNIORS MEET
American Legion Auxiliary Juniors (Bracken Post) gathered at the home of the junior advisor, Mrs. Alan Detmer, Bristol Terrace 1, Tuesday. Diane Detmer presided, and two new members, Patricia Seeger and Judith Lebo, were introduced. The first and second parts of the Auxiliary preamble were copied, and will be memorized by the girls. Auxiliary pins are to be awarded those members who memorize the entire preamble. Carols were practiced, and the evening project was the making of Christmas candy baskets. The attendance award was received by Kathleen Jones.

CLAIM SUB-DIVIDING RULES ARE REASONABLE

Regulations of Bucks Plan- ning Commission Said Not To Be Stiff

CONSULTANT IS HEARD

DOYLESTOWN, Nov. 24—Francis D. McHugh, of McHugh & McCroskey, New York consultants, asserted when he spoke at a meeting of Bucks Co. Planning Commission, here, this week that the subdivision rules and regulations of the commission are not unreasonable.

"Everybody you deal with will have to be dealt with on the same basis and they are constant and reasonable with the public interest."

Consultant McHugh, who reviewed the 39-page subdivision regulations, containing nine articles, spoke at a meeting of the Bucks County Planning Commission, here, yesterday.

"Subdivision regulations are merely the rules of the game and they put everyone on the alert and on guard about what is to be expected from subdividers," said the New York specialist.

A. Walter Fretz, president, named Isaac J. Vanartsdalen, county solicitor; Thomas B. Stockham, 3rd, Harold N. Crocker and William S. Erwin are members of a committee to make a detailed study of them before the commission adopts them. Executive Director Franklin C. Wood urged holding committee meetings at once.

J. Leslie Kilcoyne, Charles M. Meredith, President Fretz, Commission members Irwin, Stockham and Crocker and John L. Stover were present at the initial reading of the regulations.

Arthur J. Reed, of Harrisburg, chief of the Division of Planning and Community Facilities, of the State Board of Zoning, was also in attendance.

J. Leslie Kilcoyne, Bristol attorney, and a member of the commission, asked Consultant McHugh if the rules and regulations were flexible enough to deal with large and small subdividers and was assured they are.

Street grading, planning, paving, planting, sanitary sewers, street lighting, water mains and monuments are among a few of the subjects covered extensively in the regulations.

"The rules and regulations follow pretty much those of Montgomery County," said McHugh.

PRIZES FOR CARDS
Hand crocheted centerpiece, a doll, plants, hand-knit mitts, canister set, and a bread box will be offered as prizes at the card party of Bristol Blood Donors this evening in America House, Hook & Ladder Co., No. 2, station.

HOUSEKEEPER IS GIVEN A BEQUEST FOR HER KINDNESS

Mrs. Thelma Broadbecker Willed $100 By Charles C. Melchoir

THE MORRISON ESTATE

George Scott Morrison Left $10,000 Personal and $10,000 Real Estate

DOYLESTOWN, Nov. 24 — A housekeeper, Mrs. Thelma Broadbecker, was left $100 "for her kind services" to his wife during her illness through the will of Charles C. Melchoir, late of Springfield township. Mr. Melchoir left an estate listed at $1000 personal and $8000 real estate.

The testator, who died October 6th, wrote his will Nov. 18, 1950. Four children, Margaret Seylar, Anna Foellner, Helen Nichols and Milton Melchoir, were listed as residuary heirs.

APPROVE ERECTION OF CHURCH AND SCHOOL

Okayed for Holy Trinity Parish in Morrisville Borough

COST TO BE $300,000

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 24 — Announcement has been made by the Office of Education of the Federal Security Agency of approval for erection of the new Holy Trinity combined church and school at Morrisville, Pa.

The construction application has been endorsed by officials of Morrisville public schools in a letter to the Office of Education.

According to the office of Rep. Karl C. King (R., Bucks), the way now is cleared to obtain critical materials necessary to complete the two-story concrete and brick structure within the next 10 months.

The Rev. Joseph D. Gallagher, pastor of Holy Trinity parish, said the building will contain a church on the first floor and seven classrooms on the second. In addition, a cafeteria and school hall will be located in the basement of the building.

Located at Pennsylvania and Osborne avenues, the new school will provide classroom space for some 250 pupils from the first through the eighth grades. The Sister Servants of the Immaculate Heart of Mary from West Chester will teach in the new school.

Ground-breaking ceremonies for the building, estimated to cost more than $300,000, took place Nov. 11. Gleeson and Mulrooney, Philadelphia architects, designed the combination church and school, and Joseph R. Farrell, Inc., also of Philadelphia, is the general contractor.

Learns That Lt. Thornton Is Alive, and A Prisoner

BRIDGEWATER, Nov. 24 — News has been received by relatives of Lt. (jg) John W. Thornton, 29, who had been reported missing in action in Korea last March, that he is alive in a Red Chinese prison camp.

The navy helicopter pilot is the son of Mrs. John Daley, here, and husband of Mrs. Virginia Thornton, of 1000 block of VanKirk street, Philadelphia. Letters to his wife this week carried the good news that Thornton is alive. He had crashed in enemy territory in Korea.

Letters were post-marked Peiping, China. Both were in Thornton's handwriting and were uncensored, Mrs. Thornton says. One was written Sept. 2nd, her birthday anniversary; the other on Sept. 16th, the couple's wedding anniversary.

Thornton mentioned meeting a buddy, "Joe O'Connor of Spring City."

The Thorntons have a son, John, Jr., aged 3½ years.

Thornton had been recalled to active duty July, 1950, and went to Japan last December. Last January he was marooned in enemy territory for five days when his helicopter crashed on a mission, but that time he escaped enemy troops and was rescued.

State Police Say: - - -

Motorists, this will be a long, hard winter—if you have an accident. We suggest you prepare your car and keep it in shape for safe winter driving. Check the brakes and lights, the tires and tire chains, the windshield wiper and defroster. Keep your car in good condition for winter conditions—and keep YOURSELF in good condition by cautious driving.

Free First-Aid Course Is To Start Tuesday

On Tuesday, at 7:30 p. m., a new class in standard first aid will start in the municipal building.

This course which is free, and open to both men and women, will run for seven consecutive Tuesdays (excluding Christmas and New Years).

Mrs. Kay Wisler, Red Cross safety service chairman, who will teach the course, says it will feature a supplement training for atomic warfare.

This course is a requirement for those who contemplate joining the motor corps, now forming in this area.

"Painting Clouds With Sunshine" Opens Here

With some of Las Vegas' most celebrated hotels, night spots and the famed Flamingo festival as background settings, Warner Bros. brings "Painting the Clouds With Sunshine," its new big Technicolor musical, to the screen of the Grand Theatre today.

Atop flight cast headed by Dennis Morgan, Virginia Mayo and Gene Nelson leads the musical doings. In the film, they go to the picturesque Nevada town to perform in S. Z. Sakall's fashionable entertainment palace. It is there that Virginia, as a mercenary blonde looking for a millionaire, surprises herself by finding one she really loves. Interspersed with the comic situations engaged in by Sakall, Wallace Ford and Tom Conway, "Painting the Clouds With Sunshine" boasts new tunes and some of the most ambitious production numbers seen here in recent months, according to preview audiences.

One such big number is "The Mambo Man" which has dancer Nelson interpreting the Latin dance accompanied by a bevy of beautiful girls. Dennis Morgan and radio songstress Lucille Norman, who is making her Warner debut, team to sing solo and duet such songs as "When Irish Eyes Are Smiling," "One Alone," "Jalousie," "With a Song in My Heart," "We're in the Money" and the title tune.

David Butler, who has directed some of the most popular recent musicals including "Look For the Silver Lining" and "Lullaby of Broadway," directed the new film.

Levitt Draws Up The Designs for "Landia"

Alfred S. Levitt, of Levitt & Sons, Inc., has drawn up designs for "Landia," a model "community of the future," at Jericho, N. Y. This community will provide homes for the 2,500 employees of a unique war plant, described as "a working home away from home." The first unit (costing $3,000,000) of the $25,000,000 plant of Fairchild Camera and Instrument Corporation is soon to get underway.

The houses will be on a 675-acre site along the northern parkway at Jericho. It will cover 4½ acres in the center of Landia's industrial area.

The output of the war plant will be devoted entirely to defense orders for aerial cameras, radio direction finders, and other highly essential material for the armed forces. It is announced.

EDDINGTON, Nov. 24 — When a party of four young folks failed to negotiate a turn while traveling south on Street road, one mile north of Hulmeville road, last night at 10 o'clock, their car crashed into a utility pole, rolled over into a field, and was demolished. The crash caused death of one of the young men, serious injury to another young man; and painful injuries for their two girl companions.

The dead:
Joseph Seabridge, 21, State road, Eddington.

The injured:
Maurice Whitlock, 18, Dunks Ferry road, Eddington.
Diane Kidd, 14, of 611 First avenue, Croydon.
Regina Robertson, 15, Whittier avenue, Andalusia.

Seabridge, who was pronounced dead upon admittance to Nazareth Hospital, Philadelphia, was a veteran of army service, having been honorably discharged on October 29th after more than three years of service. He had been stationed in Kentucky. Just last Monday he had started working, accepting a position with Barker & Williamson, Bristol.

FORM COMMITTEE FOR UNITED FUND

Group To Help Provide Health, Welfare and Recre- ational Services

SET UP 5 COMMITTEES

FALLSINGTON, Nov. 24 — The United Fund Citizens Committee for Lower Bucks County organized last night at a meeting held in the Library and Community House here. Albert B. Mindler, chairman of the unification committee, presided. More than 25 persons, representing various civic and business groups in the area attended.

A resolution was adopted to set up a united group to provide health, welfare and recreational services for sections of Lower Bucks county, particularly in the section termed "a critical defense area" by Defense Mobilizer Charles E. Wilson.

This area comprises the townships of Bensalem, Lower Southampton, Bristol, Middletown, Newtown, Falls, Lower and Upper Makefield and the following boroughs, Bristol, Tullytown, Morrisville, Pennell, Langhorne, Langhorne Manor, Newtown and Yardley.

The organizational group set up five committees, including public relations, unification, legal, survey and research, and publicity. Warren Jennings, of Bristol township, was named chairman of the public relations committee.

He said that his committee will meet with residents of Pennsylvania who have been active in the Delaware Valley United Fund and the Trenton Council of Social Agencies to make formal plans to form a separate United Fund organization which will have no connection with

Hip Broken Recently, Tullytown Woman Dies

TULLYTOWN, Nov. 24 — Mrs. Elizabeth M. Lovett, who sustained a broken hip when she fell recently, died at her home here yesterday. She had been a resident of this borough for more than 50 years.

Wife of the late Amos H. Lovett, she is survived by a son, Gussie Grose; four grandchildren, eight great grandchildren; and one great great grandchild.

The Rev. Newton Monnett, pastor of the Church of the Nazarene, will officiate at the service at Molden funeral chapel, 133 other street, Bristol, at two p. m., Monday. Interment is to be in Tullytown Cemetery, and friends are invited to call Sunday evening.

ONE ALARM IS FALSE
One of the two alarms received by Bristol firemen yesterday was a false one. This was received at 11:10, information given being that a fire had occurred at O'Boyle's restaurant. The firemen fought a grass fire at the PRR scales in the sixth ward at five p. m.

PEACE TALKS
By Howard Handleman
Far Eastern Director, INS
MUNSAN, Korea, Nov. 24 — (INS) Allied and Communist mapmakers strove today to draw a cease-fire line across the Korean peninsula paving the way for an eventual armistice or even a "real peace" in that war-cratered land.

A hint that American officials are already looking past the still-to-be-achieved armistice and toward an overall peace settlement came from Vice President Alben Barkley in a statement to newsmen at Eighth Army Headquarters.

The 74-year-old Vice President describing prospects for an armistice as "encouraging," warned that United Nations troops probably will remain in Korea until what he called a "real peace" is achieved.

Barkley did not elaborate on what he considered a real peace. But he excoriated the Communists for having initiated and pursued a conflict which he said "marks a low water mark in civilized war."

Actual determination of the line of battle contact progressed slowly

THE RECKLESS DRIVERS

As a deterrent to reckless driving, the proposal of New Jersey's Banking and Insurance Commissioner Gaffney to the Northeastern regional highway safety and motor vehicle conference is worth consideration. He would require that a red label be pasted on the windshield and rear window of any car whose driver-owner is convicted of violations tending to cause accidents.

To give effect to the plan every car at the start would bear green labels. Following the conviction of an owner, the green labels would be replaced by red labels. Failure to obey instructions regarding the labels or a second conviction within a year would result in revocation of the offender's driving license for two years in addition to fine or jail penalties.

Mr. Gaffney argues that the plan would tend to spur "healthy and constant impulses" on the part of the average driver, with its effectiveness limited only by the number of states adopting it. The commissioner would apply the red label to cases of excessive speed, passing on hills or on dangerous curves, moving into the wrong lane, driving through red lights or stop streets and driving too close to the car in front and at fast speed.

Some may object that the red labels, in effect, would be like the mark of Cain. But why shouldn't anyone guilty of the reckless acts enumerated be so stigmatized? They account for a majority of the nation's shocking total of highway fatalities.

WEEK FROM HUNGER

There are approximately 13 weeks, or 91 days, in any three-month period. But this is only according to the calendar. The Department of Commerce reveals there will be nearly 100 "weeks" celebrated to promote something or other—all in the next three months.

They will not all be exactly a week long, to be sure. The longest, appropriately labeled Large Size Week, is to last 10 days. The shortest will be only a day long, and their sponsors are still conservative enough to call them days. Nevertheless, 100 of the things cannot be squeezed into a 81-day period without making it as overcrowded as some of the nation's schools, hospitals and prisons.

There will be National T-Bone Steak Week for anybody who can afford it, and National Krait and Frankfurter Week for those who cannot.

But the "weeks" are growing amazingly, and it is interesting to speculate on the possible names of "weeks" still to be born.

How long will it be, inquires a gazette, before the nation is confronted by National Blown Gasket Week, National Defrost the Refrigerator Week, or National In-grown Toenail Week? The country is just emerging from National Turkey Week. But the favorite week-of-the-future of a great many persons is strictly from hunger: National No Week at All Week.

Mr. Gaffney argues that the plan would tend to spur "healthy and constant impulses" on the part of the average driver, with its effectiveness limited only by the number of states adopting it. The commissioner would apply the red label to cases of excessive speed, passing on hills or on dangerous curves, moving into the wrong lane, driving through red lights or stop streets and driving too close to the car in front and at fast speed.

Some may object that the red labels, in effect, would be like the mark of Cain. But why shouldn't anyone guilty of the reckless acts enumerated be so stigmatized? They account for a majority of the nation's shocking total of highway fatalities.

THE RECKLESS DRIVERS

As a deterrent to reckless driving, the proposal of New Jersey's Banking and Insurance Commissioner Gaffney to the Northeastern regional highway safety and motor vehicle conference is worth consideration. He would require that a red label be pasted on the windshield and rear window of any car whose driver-owner is convicted of violations tending to cause accidents.

He would require that a red label be pasted on the windshield and rear window of any car whose driver-owner is convicted of violations tending to cause accidents.

To give effect to the plan every car at the start would bear green labels. Following the conviction of an owner, the green labels would be replaced by red labels. Failure to obey instructions regarding the labels or a second conviction within a year would result in revocation of the offender's driving license for two years in addition to fine or jail penalties.

They will not all be exactly a week long, to be sure. The longest, appropriately labeled Large Size Week, is to last 10 days. The shortest will be only a day long, and their sponsors are still conservative enough to call them days. Nevertheless, 100 of the things cannot be squeezed into a 81-day period without making it as overcrowded as some of the nation's schools, hospitals and prisons.

There will be National T-Bone Steak Week for anybody who can afford it, and National Krait and Frankfurter Week for those who cannot.

But the "weeks" are growing amazingly, and it is interesting to speculate on the possible names of "weeks" still to be born.

How long will it be, inquires a gazette, before the nation is confronted by National Blown Gasket Week, National Defrost the Refrigerator Week, or National In-grown Toenail Week? The country is just emerging from National Turkey Week. But the favorite week-of-the-future of a great many persons is strictly from hunger: National No Week at All Week.

7TH ANNIVERSARY OF PASTORATE WILL BE MARKED SUNDAY

Bristol Presbyterian Church, the Rev. Edward G. Yeomans, minister; Sunday, 9:30 a. m., the "quiet hour" in the choir room; 9:45 a. m., Church School, Fred R. Herman, superintendent; 11, morning worship, as the day will mark the 7th anniversary of the present pastorate, the pastor will mark the occasion with an appropriate message, "The Gospel Ministry" (nursery conducted for pre-school children during morning service); six p. m., a "pot-luck" supper for young people, joint affair for young people of the three C. E. Societies; 7:30, evening worship, with young people in charge, combining worship service for the young people with regular evening service; message day, 7:45 p. m., business meeting of Sunday School teachers and officers; Thursday, seven p. m., Boys Brigade (ages 12-18); Friday, seven p. m., Boys Brigade (ages 9 through 11); 8:30 p. m., choir rehearsal.

or indirectly connected with the communist organization in the U. S. A., the senator says. And just to be sure there is no mistaking his ideas on the subject, he adds: "I have never seen any violation of constitutional rights in bringing to the people's attention the fact of a man's connection with any organization and propaganda which is clearly against the people of the United States."

All of this may give you some idea of the kind of President Taft would be if nominated and elected. It is certain that he would be a vastly different one from our present White House occupant. Which is precisely why the senator from Ohio wrote the book.

might wish to broaden their knowledge of civics, history, nature, animals, geography, industry and art. Information on resource people who would talk about their hobbies, travels and other interests was shared with the group. A form for recording pertinent information about community resources to be used by teachers in selecting and using these places and people was developed.

Miss Esther Gehman, chairman of the home and school relations group, met with her committee in the Bucks County Library. Miss Alice Bright acted as secretary. A report on parent-teacher conferences held in the first grades for the first time last year, was given by Mrs. Mary Williams, Sell-Perk township, played a tape-recording of a parent-teacher conference. This was evaluated by the group. The group felt that the use of tape recordings was one device that could be used effectively in teaching correct conference techniques.

For the meeting, January 8th, this group will continue to read on the subject of conferences. A bibliography of helpful references will be compiled. Reports will be made of interviews with teachers in other districts who have been using the conference method of reporting to parents. Two parents will visit the group to discuss their experiences and evaluations of conferring with teachers.

Ultimately, the committee will write a pamphlet on parent-teacher conferences to serve as a guide for teachers interested in beginning this method of reporting to the home.

Today's Quiet Moment

By the Rev. Harold C. Koch, S. T. M., pastor Bristol Methodist Church

"Blessed are the fires of fall, for they are the flames of faith. Blessed are the crimson and golden and yellow leaves, the white birch, and aspen trees naked in the sun, a blanket of golden tapestry beneath their graceful forms. Blessed are the lovely sumacs with red ribbons in their hair, and the maple trees, garmented in gold and crimson. . . . Blessed are the silences and the soft fluttering leaves, the smell of smoke and the Indian summer bon-fires; the 'haze on the far horizon'; the bird caravans which seek the South; the subtle sense of God's repose." (Wm. L. Stidger). Today I will let the beauty of God's creation speak to me of His glorious power and gracious goodness!

mittie, and says he feels more encouraged in 1951 than he did in 1947, when he was in Europe also. "There are many hopeful things," said Dr. Mohr. "The battle will not be lost for there is fundamentally something unconquerable in the human spirit."

Dr. Mohr had talked with teachers in the affiliate schools in Dusseldorf, and they feel that too great a concentration of wealth is in the hands of too few people. "We do not hear enough of the internal problems that are basic."

"There is evidence of vitality in religion over there," and Dr. Mohr feels the youth here and over there are the type that can learn to understand each other. "It is a long pull and will be successful," said Dr. Mohr. "If we approach Thanksgiving being thankful that a merciful Providence will give us the desire to pray that we may be capable of carrying on the great ideals upon which the world can survive."

Mrs. Leroy Nixon, president of the Century Club, introduced Dr. Mohr. Mrs. Robert Titlow announced the last meeting on "Inflation" will be held at her home Nov. 27th at 9:30 a. m.

Coffee, tea and cookies were served, with Mrs. Thomas Flanagan pouring in the west room, following Dr. Mohr's talk. Hostesses included: Mrs. Robert Titlow, Mrs. Robert H. Biddle, 3rd, Mrs. Helen Handle, Mrs. Charles Abbe, Mrs. Harry Pfeiffer, Mrs. Leonard Pfeiffer and Mrs. Marion Elwell.

Paragraphs of interest to those interested in the Bristol Young Men's Christian Association.

The deadline for entering the YMCA basketball leagues has been extended to next Monday evening. Due to a number of teams expressing an interest in the leagues this extension has been made to accommodate them, but the leagues will have to definitely close after this Monday evening, Nov. 26. The mid-get league for boys 11-14 years of age will meet at 7:30 p. m. The junior league for boys 15-17 years of age will meet at 7:30 p. m. The senior league for young men 18 years of age will meet at eight p. m. All teams must be represented.

On Dec. 1st, preliminary plans for a teen-age girls' basketball league will be discussed. All girls interested in playing basketball are invited to the "Y" at 9:30 a. m. this Saturday.

county with certain exceptions which deal with the standards of the land to be used," said Consultant McHugh. "Land uses are required in addition to dwellings, play areas, schools and churches."

Great emphasis was placed on a plan of stature which includes reservations and dedication of space as an area keeps on growing.

"Too often," said Consultant McHugh, "subdividers bring a community or development only to find that they should have left more space for parks, schools or other community facilities."

"Today people will not buy a house if there is no school within a reasonable distance from it," Executive Director Wood announced that the commission has been invited to attend a dinner as guests of Danherst Corp., which is building Fairless Hills near Fallsington.

No action was taken on the subdivision rules and regulations pending a report to be made by Solicitor Vanartsdalen and they also will be given more intensive examination and discussion before being adopted.

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

By FRANK R. KENT

Hunt For A Formula

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24. Not many informed men in politics believe in the feasibility of the plans of Senator Karl Mundt, of South Dakota, to scrap the present two-party system by having his own Republican party join with conservative anti-Truman Southern Democrats in support of a ticket in 1952 which would satisfy both. The practical political difficulties seem insurmountable.

Nevertheless, the manner in which Republican conservatives and Southern Democrats have made their coalition effective in Congress in recent years is so clear and convincing as to lend some substance to the Mundt argument. The figures compiled by the Legislative Reference Service of the Library of Congress, and recently published by the Southern States Industrial Council's Bulletin, are interesting and significant. The list is incomplete for three reasons: (1) floor actions in Senate and House are frequently taken without a record vote; (2) in the House issues are often decided by committees of the whole in which there is no record vote; (3) there is no record of votes within House or Senate committees where the coalition frequently operates to kill or amend socialistic legislation. Particularly is this true in the powerful House Rules Committee, where four Republicans and four Southern Democrats frequently form a working majority.

Space will not permit a complete statement even of the floor actions where there was a record vote, but here are some of the more important instances in which the coalition was successful—Seventy-sixth Congress: Investigation of the National Labor Relations Board. This was strongly opposed by the Administration and the labor unions. It provided the foundation for the later enactment of the Taft-Hartley law. The total House vote was 254 for and 134 against, as follows:

Republicans	151 for; 9 against
Southern Dem.	79 for; 19 against
Northern Dem.	24 for; 104 against
Other	0 for; 2 against

Seventy-seventh Congress—Anti-Smith strike bill. House, 252 for and 136 against, as follows:

Republicans	123 for; 24 against
Southern Dem.	104 for; 14 against
Northern Dem.	25 for; 101 against
Other	0 for; 1 against

Seventy-eighth Congress—Connally no-strike bill. Total Senate vote, 55 for and 22 against, as follows:

Republicans	25 for; 5 against
Southern Dem.	21 for; 4 against
Northern Dem.	9 for; 16 against
Other	0 for; 1 against

At this session of Congress the coalition passed a bill in the House to open OPA orders to court review. Seventy-ninth Congress, Permanent House Committee on Un-American Activities established by a vote of 208 for and 186 against, as follows:

Republicans	118 for; 34 against
Southern Dem.	82 for; 43 against
Northern Dem.	8 for; 107 against
Other	0 for; 2 against

At the second session of the Seventy-ninth Congress, the coalition passed House legislation requiring that price ceilings include reasonable profits and in the Senate a bill was passed to prohibit secondary boycotts.

Eightieth Congress—Passage of Taft-Hartley Act and overriding the President's veto. On the latter issue the votes in Senate and House were: total Senate, 65 for, 27 against, as follows:

Republicans	48 for; 3 against
Southern Dem.	19 for; 7 against
Northern Dem.	1 for; 17 against
House total vote	331 for, 83 against

Eighty-first Congress—To strike out co-operative housing loans. Senate total, 43 for, 38 against, as follows:

Republicans	36 for; 6 against
Southern Dem.	11 for; 12 against
Northern Dem.	9 for; 26 against
House total	218 for, 155 against, as follows:

Republicans	137 for; 13 against
Southern Dem.	72 for; 26 against
Northern Dem.	9 for; 115 against
Other	0 for; 1 against

Other instances, the Bulletin points out, in which the coalition at this session has challenged the Fair Dealers in one or both branches, include return of employment office to the states, subversive activities control, Wood bill, rejection of reorganization of the NLRB so as to curb the independence of the general counsel, disapproval of the proposed Federal Department of Health, Education and Security. Neither the Brannan plan nor the socialized medicine proposal has been brought to a vote because the Administration recognizes both would be defeated by the coalition. Efforts to repeal the Taft-Hartley Act have been abandoned for the same reason.

And though the Republicans are for it in theory, so has the effort to enact the so-called Federal Fair Employment Practice Act, so repulsive to the South. Considering

Housework For Home-Owners

By JOAN O'SULLIVAN

IT takes a heap of living and a heap of hard work to make a house a home, although the poet forgot to point out this latter in his poem. But ask anyone who has his own house and he'll tell you it's true!

Buy a new home and, in what seems like no time at all, repairs need to be made. Or, if repairs aren't required, you start planning improvements! Anyway you look at it, there's always something that needs to be done.

With the cost of living hitting a new high, chances are the man of the house has his work cut out for him week-ends and holidays. Hiring professional help adds such a big item to the family budget that many husbands are doing home repair work themselves. And what a job! Some husbands have the know-how; others insist you can learn from experience; all will find a new volume, "The Complete Home Repair Book," a valuable addition to the homemaker's bookshelf.

This encyclopedia of household how-to-do contains 1,618 pages of helpful hints and instructions, plus innumerable pictures, drawings and diagrams, some of which are reproduced here. It covers the house inside and out, attic to cellar.

The volume is divided into chapters covering interior and exterior maintenance and repairs, including plumbing, plastering, roofing and painting. Furniture and upholstery is considered, too. Interior woodworking projects, electrical appliances and concrete masonry are included in the section on Home Improvements.

There are eight sections devoted to instructions for repairs requiring woodworking hand and power tools, metalworking hand and power tools, plumbing and heating tools, electrical tools, concrete, plastering and masonry materials, and painting and decorating supplies.

Home insulation is covered in still another section and there are several chapters on these facts two things are clear—first, that while the Fair Dealers and their left-wing labor-boss allies control the White House; they do not control Congress; second, that they would not control the White House if a way could be found to make the anti-Administration votes in the South count at the polls. Leaders of the Southern revolt know this well and they seek a formula to achieve it.

At this session of Congress the coalition passed a bill in the House to open OPA orders to court review. Seventy-ninth Congress, Permanent House Committee on Un-American Activities established by a vote of 208 for and 186 against, as follows:

Makelfield township, who left a $10,000 personal estate, and $10,000 real estate holdings, bequeathed $2,000 to his housekeeper, Edith M. Jones.

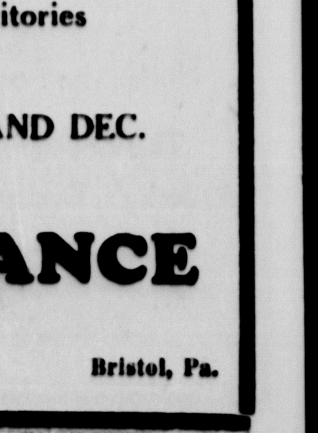

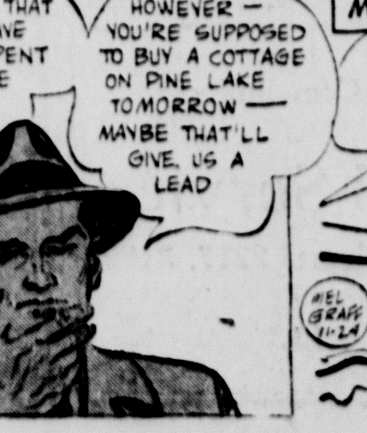

The testator, who died Oct. 11, wrote his will Sept. 23, 1948. Mary F. Connors, 113 Culbertson street, Trenton, N. J., was given $2,000 and a second cousin, W. Ralston Rodgers, 2nd, 219 Valley road, Merion, who was also named executor, will inherit the residue. Real estate is located in Lower Makefield township.

The widow, Sophie Stader, 351 Market street, Perkasie, who was also named executrix, will inherit the $15,000 personal estate of her husband, William Stader, Perkasie. The will was dated Aug. 19, 1944, and the testator died Sept. 19.

The nieces, Edna Lear Blinn and Elsie Lear Cooke, will inherit the $700 estate of Mary L. Paxson, of Newtown, who died Sept. 18. The will, dated May 12, 1948, named meanwhile at today's Pan Mun Jon meeting, which adjourned until tomorrow after morning and afternoon sessions totaling five hours and a half.

Hopes for complete agreement on the provisional trans-peninsular buffer zone by the end of the day faded when the morning session produced several points of disagreement on just where the two sides are now fighting.

Only half the battlefield was covered during the morning talks. The Communists also were making a mighty military effort to change the battleline to their advantage by savage attacks northeast of Kaesong, which they have indicated in negotiations they desire to hold at all costs in their post-armistice occupation zone.

Large scale attacks forced a gap in the Allied advance line on approaches flanking Kaesong, and the Reds captured a hill on the main Allied battle line.

Despite the bitter fighting, however, Allied delegates remained optimistic of a truce by Christmas. Spokesmen cautioned, however, that agreement on a provisional cease-fire belt alone will not mean an end to the fighting.

The zone when drawn will border the eventual line of demarcation between the two sides provided agreement on other issues is reached within 30 days.

Other agenda items include means of enforcing an armistice and preventing a buildup of forces; when and how to exchange war prisoners, and recommendations to governments. The latter is an innocuous-sounding catch-all for such still potentially explosive issues as withdrawal of all foreign troops from Korea and eventual withdrawal to the 38th Parallel—demands which the Red negotiators appear to have dropped temporarily but for which the Communist propaganda drums are still beating in Peking, Moscow and Paris.

Blackboard Talk Proves To Be Very Informative

Members of the Bristol Aero-modelers were entertained at their last meeting by Major William Sydnor and Frank Schweitzer, radio controlled model specialists from Croydon.

An informative blackboard talk on operation of a radio controlled model airplane was given by Major Sydnor, who also demonstrated his control system in his six foot wingspan, free flight model. This model has over 100 successful flights to its credit. The receiver and control equipment contained has a gross weight of only eight ounces. It enables him to put the model through such maneuvers as figure 8's, shallow dives and spirals as well as be able to spot land the craft anywhere he desires.

In the Aeromodelers new winter activity a model exhibited by David Baker was judged by club members. He was awarded 143 points which put him in 2nd place. Albert Abrams, Jr., holds 1st place with 144 points. Points are awarded for such items as neatness, general construction, finish, detail, etc.

Weather permitting, a model flying session will be held at the model airport tomorrow.
